

Parking Lot Liability

September 2011

Are damaged parking lot sign posts a liability to the owner?

We have all seen damaged sign posts... Here is the solution!

The question is if this damaged sign post causes damage to a vehicle due to the negligence of the lot owner, who pays to fix the vehicle?

Parking lots are busy places with potential hazards such as hitting pedestrians, running into vehicle traffic and shopping carts, etc. We understand that we need to drive slowly and pay attention to our surroundings.

HOWEVER, if the manager of the parking lot leaves damaged signage unattended, this can cause damage to vehicles and even personal injury - thus leaving them open to litigation and liability.

Flexpost fixes this problem once and for all...

Flexpost manufactures flexible steel sign posts specifically designed for parking lot applications. The posts are made out of galvanized steel and can handle any regulatory signage. The posts are spring loaded and will withstand impacts and flex 360 degrees.

Flexpost products are an investment in the future of your parking lot where as traditional sign posts are an expense.
